What we do best

All our faculty members have doctoral degrees in law from noted universities at home and abroad. Their fields of expertise include civil law, criminal law, commercial law, intellectual property law, artificial intelligence and law, international law, etc., helping students to gain a solid foundation in law and develop a global view.

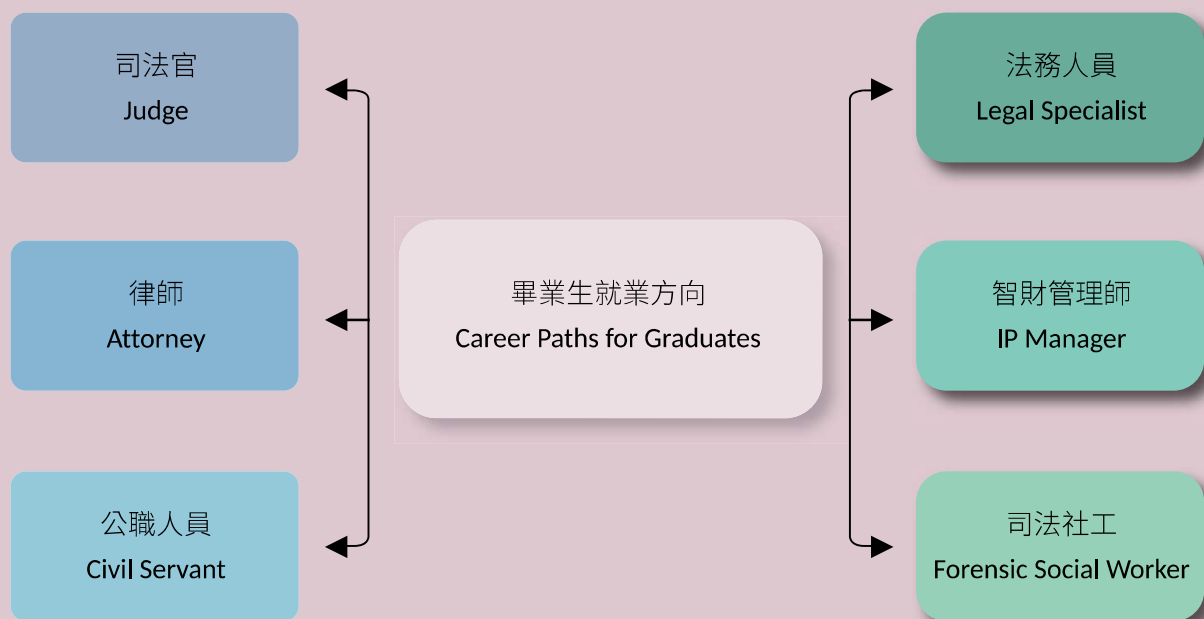

In the fast-changing information age, industry collaboration has become increasingly popular. Therefore, the career paths of legal talents should no longer be limited to the traditional roles, such as being judges, lawyers or civil servants. The Department of Law plans to incorporate legal training into home economics, design and information technology by setting up cross-disciplinary modules in courses that include family and law, fashion and law, and artificial intelligence and law. The goal is to cultivate legal talent with cross-disciplinary skills to offer more diverse career paths for our students.

本系畢業生的就業方向相當多元，除可選擇法律人傳統的就業管道外，亦可至國內各產業，如金融業、電子產業、時尚產業、文化創意產業、兒童少年安置及教養機構、婦女暨家庭服務中心、身心障礙福利機構、老人福利機構、長期照護服務機構等，擔任法務人員、法遵人員、智慧財產權管理師、法律研究人員，或從事兒童少年保護、家庭暴力防治、老人與身心障礙者保護及性暴力防治等司法社會工作。

Upon completing their studies, our graduates can pursue careers in a wide range of fields. In addition to the traditional paths, they can work in a variety of sectors and institutions, such as finance, IT, fashion, culture and the creative industries, child and youth placement agencies, woman and family services centers, welfare institutions for the mentally and physically challenged, welfare institutions for the elderly and long-term care institutions. They can work as part of a legal team, in legal compliance, intellectual property management, legal research or in child and youth protection, prevention of domestic violence, protection of the elderly and the mentally and physically challenged, prevention of sexual violence and many more.

Looking forward

Our Taipei campus is right next to the Ministry of National Defense, and near to Neihu Technology Park, Nankang Software Park, MRT Dazhi Station, and Taipei Songshan Airport. It takes only 15 minutes to travel to Taiwan Railway and Taiwan High Speed Rail stations. With its location advantage, the Department of Law plans to continue recruiting top scholars and build strong relationships with local industries to create a comprehensive platform that combines industry, academia, research, services and internships. We will urge our teaching staff to offer courses that link closely with industry and internship opportunities, providing students diverse opportunities to learn in the real world. By closing the gap between what they learn in class and industry, we equip students with legal knowledge and internship experience that will eventually increase their employability when they step into the real world.
